Garlic (Allium sativum)

This oil is mentioned here mainly so that I can list the cautions that should be used with this oil. Essential oil of garlic is not the same as the extracted and very dilute garlic oil that is found in capsules that are for sale in health food stores. A drop or two of the oil found in these capsules is excellent for earache and, taken internally, combats many types of infections. Essential oil of garlic is very strong and potent - actually caustic!!! I cannot stress this enough!! A drop or two of garlic essential oil in the ear would burn sufficiently to most likely require medical assistance. 2 drops of the essential oil in 1 oz of carrier oil would be excellent as a treatment for ears or bacterial skin rashes but be sure to mix it extremely well. Garlic, as an herb, is one of natures greatest medicines. It is said to be nature's most perfect antibiotic - for good reason. This oil has been added - sparingly - to animal feed with amazing results. Never, for even a moment, forget how concentrated the essential oil form is but don't be so afraid that you miss the amazing benefits of this oil, either

Therapeutic Properties: antibiotic, anti-bacterial, anti-fungal,
Application: extremely diluted at all times!
Aromatic: not recommended
