Angelica

Angelica is often called the “oil of angels”. The physical and emotional aspects of this oil cannot be easily separated, even in a description. Angelica weakens the power of traumatic memories and events. The event still happened, and the memory is still there, but the devastating effects on the body and mind are greatly minimized. Angelica has this effect on the mind because it releases toxins and congestion from the liver. The liver, according to Eastern tradition, is the seat of anger and rage.
